California's Employment and Unemployment Statistics For February Will Not be Available on Friday, March 11

NOTE TO EDITORS: Major changes in the estimating process, applicable for all states and local areas and mandated by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), have extended the time required to compute and validate these data. Since the Employment Development Department (EDD) has not yet received the information necessary from BLS to produce the statewide and local labor market statistics for February, we will not be able to announce the new figures as expected today.

EDD will issue the statewide and local industry and labor force statistics as soon as they become available.
